[00:15:33] The House will come to order. Members, please take your seats. Head page. The House is now in session. All persons not entitled to privileges of the floor, please retire to the gallery.

[00:15:49] The members will rise and be led in prayer by Pastor Greg Rogers, Senior Pastor, Grace Memorial Baptist Church, Bedford, and remain standing for the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, which will be led by the Delegate from Alexandria, Delegate Herring. The privilege it is to pray for these delegates, and thank you, Lord, for their service to you, and thank you, Lord, for the opportunity to be here.

[00:16:13] I know, Lord, probably being a delegate is not easy work, neither is being a pastor easy work. And yet there are many times, Lord, when we probably would love to have supernatural help. And I pray for these delegates right now that you would give them that supernatural help, that you give them the wisdom and the discernment that you gave King Solomon almost 3,000 years ago.

[00:16:34] And Lord, would you help them to know that it is available? Your word tells us in James 1, 5, if any man lack wisdom, let him ask of God who giveth to all men liberally, and abradeth not, and it shall be given. So, Lord, thank you for the privilege of knowing you and having your wisdom.

[00:16:51] And may these delegates be so excited about being connected to you and having your wisdom that they experience your help on every corner. And, Lord, I pray that you would just help their testimony to be like the psalmist was in Psalm 121 too.

[00:17:07] My help cometh from the Lord which made heaven and earth. So, Lord, bless these delegates. bless this session. Bless Virginia. Thank you for it. May your will be done. In Jesus' name, I pray these things. Amen. Amen. Let the legions be made to God indivisible, liberty

[00:17:33] and justice. The members will answer the roll call by indicating their presence on the electronic

[00:18:00] voting board. Close the roll. Mr. Speaker, a quorum is present. Pursuant to House Rule 3, I've examined and approved the Journal of House of Delegates for January 19, 2026.

[00:18:24] Motions and resolutions under Rule 39 pursuant to Rule 40. Provisions of Rule 40 are now in order. Does the clerk have any announcements or communications? No announcements or communications, the speaker. Therefore, pursuant to House Rule 40, the speaker requests you use your request to speak button for the items listed up on reference on the voting board.

[00:18:44] The delegate from Campbell, Delegate Zier. Mr. Speaker, I rise for the purpose of an introduction. The delegate has the floor. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Mr. Speaker and colleagues, the man that we just heard prays for me regularly.

[00:19:01] He prays for each of us regularly. His church prays for us, and I wanted you to have the experience this morning of hearing him pray for us. And so I want to thank and introduce Pastor Greg Rogers and his wife, Christine, for coming this distance. Pastor Greg pastors Grace Memorial Baptist Church in Bedford, Virginia.

[00:19:19] If you're ever out of our way, make sure you stop in on a Sunday morning and join for the service. Thank you, Pastor. And let's give him and his wife a warm house welcome. Welcome, Pastor Rogers. Thank you. Thank you for being here.

[00:19:44] A delegate from Alexandria, Delegate Herring. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise for an introduction. Delegates, the floor. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, today in the gallery, we have the leadership and dedicated membership of the NAACP Virginia State Conference, if they can rise.

[00:20:05] Mr. Speaker, for over a century, this chapter has stood as a powerful vanguard for justice across the Commonwealth. From the courtrooms to the classrooms, these individuals carry forward a legacy of tireless advocacy, ensuring that the voices of the marginalized are not only heard, but felt in the halls of power.

[00:20:32] They are the organizers, the legal minds, and the community pillars working daily to advance equality, civil rights, and systematic change for all Virginians. I hope it is the pleasure of the House to give them another warm House welcome. Welcome.

[00:21:01] Welcome to the Capitol today. The delegate from Rockingham, Delegate Wilt. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise for an announcement. Delegate has the floor. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Ladies and gentlemen of the House, just wanted to let the body know that tomorrow morning will be the kickoff of the Conservative Energy Caucus.

[00:21:20] I don't get taken aback by the word conservative. The goal primarily is to address the energy needs and take an honest, objective look at it and how we can conservatively address those energy needs. And conservative, in this case, being most affordable to our rate payers.

[00:21:39] Okay. And so we'll have speakers throughout the session. We generally meet once a week. There'll be speakers there that share, you know, whatever type of energy generation they may be representing. Tomorrow we'll hear from Dominion and Appalachian Power on how they see their future needs stacking up.

[00:22:00] We will be meeting in the 7th North Conference Room at 7.30. It's a little early for some folks, just the senators. You know, that's all right, I tried. So, yeah, so we'd love to have you and come and share your thoughts, and we'll all learn together.

[00:22:20] Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The delegate from Henrico, Delegate McQuinn. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Mr. Speaker, I rise for an announcement. Delegate has the floor. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I just want to take this opportunity to once again invite all of my colleagues to the cancer caucus, the 2026 cancer caucus meeting and reception.

[00:22:44] This year will be co-chaired by Senator Stanley, Senator Mike Jones, Delegate Herring, and myself. And you'll have an opportunity, especially for those who are here, the freshmen who are here for the first time, to hear advocacy groups, patients, providers, hospitals, and more and learn about the legislative issues before the General Assembly and how they affect people with cancer.

[00:23:07] It is January the 23rd, 8 a.m. this week in House Room 9, Room 900. So please come by for a moment and meet individuals, hear about what's going on and see what we can do to make sure that we enhance the quality of life of others by addressing some of the issues that they're dealing with.

[00:23:29] Thank you. The delegate from Rockingham, Delegate Runyon. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Mr. Speaker, I rise for an introduction. Delegate has the floor. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Visiting today in the gallery, we have members of Virginia's oldest funeral service association with us.

[00:23:46] The Virginia Funeral Directors Association will be 138 years old this year, and they have been here for more than they have the time and existence of our nation. The Virginia Funeral Directors Association aims to be the most trusted resource for funeral service providers, communities, and even the General Assembly in Virginia.

[00:24:07] They strive to bring innovation to the profession, provide solutions to critical issues when needed, and demonstrate unparalleled professionalism when serving grieving families and loved ones trusted into their care. Fellow Delegates, please join me in giving a warm welcome to the Virginia Funeral Directors Association.

[00:24:28] Thank you. Welcome. Welcome to the Capitol today. Not trying to see you for business purposes anytime soon. The delegate from Norfolk, Delegate Hernandez. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise for an introduction.

[00:24:50] Delegate has the floor. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Today we are joined by several local elected officials and constituents from the great city of Norfolk, including my district, District 94. I would ask that they please stand, if able. So these folks are participating in the third annual Norfolk at the Capitol Day event.

[00:25:10] They are engaged all year long on all sorts of policy issues, and they're here to see the legislative process up close and personal. And I know that they enjoyed hearing from you earlier, too, Mr. Speaker. So please join me in Delegates Glass, Anthony, and ask you in giving them a warm house welcome.

[00:25:30] Welcome. Welcome to the Capitol today. The delegate from Richmond City, Delegate Carr. Mr. Speaker, I ask for an introduction.

[00:25:47] Delegate has the floor. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Joining us today in the gallery are board members from the Virginia Business Higher Education Council here on their annual legislative day, and I would ask them to please stand. The council, Mr. Speaker, is a partnership of business and community leaders from around the Commonwealth and leaders of our public and private colleges and universities and our community colleges.

[00:26:13] This partnership is one of the big reasons Virginia's higher ed system is the nation's best, earning top national rankings for everything, from graduation rates to return on investment. Jay Lark's recent report on higher education showed that our colleges and universities have been excellent partners in using increased state support to make college more affordable.

[00:26:36] Our surrounding states all spend considerably more per student than Virginia, yet don't have the top national rankings for quality, graduation rates, and ROI. We do. However, there's more work to be done.

[00:26:52] We need to make two- and four-year degrees and workforce credentials affordable for all Virginians and provide students paid internships along the way. We need to keep more students in Virginia and working full-time after graduation. Recently, members received VBHEC's new impacted agenda.

[00:27:13] It shows how our investments in higher education are producing value for the people of Virginia and how we can prioritize investments that increase that impact in the years ahead. You'll hear more about this in a formal announcement, but next Monday, our new governor and many of us will be joining these and other business leaders to launch a big statewide push on internships.

[00:27:36] The goal is to get more Virginia employers, large and small, to start or expand internship programs so there's opportunity for young people all across our state. As we recognize and appreciate the important work that our business leaders and college presidents are doing together to create growth and opportunity throughout this commonwealth, I hope you will join me in giving these leaders a warm house welcome.

[00:28:01] Welcome. Welcome to the Capitol today. The delegate from Virginia Beach, Delegate Askew.

[00:28:17] Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Mr. Speaker, I rise for the purpose of an introduction. The delegate has the floor. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Mr. Speaker, it is my pleasure to welcome to the gallery this morning a group of college presidents and senior leaders representing Virginia's 28 nonprofit private colleges and universities. If they're in the gallery, can they please stand?

[00:28:34] These leaders are here to advocate for their sector and say thank you for TAG, Virginia's Tuition Assistance Grant. Virginia private colleges and leaders met with senators and delegates this morning at our Virginia private college caucus meeting where we discussed the challenging faces of higher ed.

Virginia's nonprofit private colleges educate over 100,000 students, graduate one-third of all degrees, employ 30,000 Virginians, and make approximately $5 billion in economic impact statewide.

[00:28:59] For over 50 years, resident undergraduate Virginia students have received the Virginia Tuition Assistance Grant, often called TAG, which has supported the degree aspirations of more than 300,000 Virginians, and is currently $5,250. Mr. Speaker, please join me and the rest of the body and welcome me, these leaders, here to the Capitol today.

[00:29:22] Welcome. Welcome to the Capitol today. Delegate from Virginia Beach, the other delegate, Delegate Converse Fowler. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise for a motion. The delegate has the floor. Mr. Speaker, I move that when the House adjourns today, it do so in honor and memory of Renee Nicole Good.

[00:29:44] And I would like to speak to that motion. Delegate has the floor. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Today I rise to honor the life and memory of Renee Nicole Good. A mother, a daughter, a spouse, and above all, a human being whose life mattered.

[00:30:01] Renee's story resonated deeply with me. She was a mother of three, as I am, and an Old Dominion University graduate, as I also am. Renee was devoted to her children, raising them with love, teaching them with kindness, and showing them what it means to care for others.

[00:30:18] Her family describes her as compassionate, creative, and deeply caring, someone who believed in recognizing the humanity in others and living her values through everyday acts of love. She was also a writer and a poet, and someone who found meaning in words and beauty in expression.

[00:30:37] And in her final moments, Renee is heard speaking calmly and saying, I'm not mad at you. She worked hard, supported her family, and carried the quiet responsibilities that so many parents shoulder without recognition. And no matter where we come from or how we see the world, one truth matters, one truth remains.

[00:30:57] When a parent is lost, a family is changed forever. Renee's family has asked that she be remembered for who she was, not through anger, but through empathy, not through rhetoric, but through care. Honoring that request matters. In moments like this, we owe it to the public to be honest about what is meant to protect people and what failed to do so. As the spouse of a law enforcement officer, I understand law enforcement procedures, and I know they are grounded in protecting life. When those procedures are abandoned, tragedy follows. What happened to Renee Nicole Good, Mr. Speaker, was not procedure. It was a

[00:31:36] preventable failure. Renee should be alive today. She should be picking up her children from school and it is our responsibility not to look away but to reflect and recommit ourselves to the fundamental value of human life. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The delegate from Virginia Beach, Delegate Convert-Fowler, has moved that when the House adjourns today, it do so in the honor and

[00:32:14] memory of Renee Nicole Good. All those in favor shall rise. The motion is agreed to. The delegate from Prince William, Delegate Henson. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Mr. Speaker, I rise today for an introduction. Delegate has the floor. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Mr. Speaker, I'd like to introduce the extraordinary high school students taking part of the sixth annual Ella Baker Youth Leadership Program. I ask that they please stand. They're probably behind me. This year, we have students

[00:32:50] from both Prince William and Fairfax counties, representing House District 15, 19, 23, and 24. Ella Baker was a prominent civil rights leader from the Commonwealth of Virginia. Ms. Baker spent her life fighting to empower disadvantaged groups and played a key role in the most influential civil rights groups at the time, including Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s Southern Christian Leadership Conference, and was eventually named the highest-ranking woman in the NAACP as the Director of Branches.

[00:33:21] Ms. Baker is credited for establishing the Student Nonviolent Coordination Committee, which helped Emerge students, activists organize nonviolent protests across the nation. In her honor, we hope to empower students across Prince William and Fairfax counties to raise their hands and to be leaders in tackling the problems facing their community.

[00:33:41] You will likely see these students across the Capitol and in your offices. For that reason, Mr. Speaker, I ask that the House please give them a warm House welcome.

[00:34:04] Welcome. Welcome to the Capitol today. Delegate from York County, Delegate Downey. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise for an introduction. Delegate has the floor. Mr. Speaker, in the gallery today, we have the remarkable nursing students and their deans from Bright Point and Germana Community Colleges, along with the director of the Virginia Nursing Workforce Center under the Virginia Health Workforce Development Authority.

[00:34:28] A lot of words. Please stand. Mr. Speaker, as you know, we are facing nursing staff shortages throughout the Commonwealth. These students, community colleges, and the Virginia Nursing Workforce Center are working nonstop to train and develop our future nursing workforce to address those needs. I request that the members join me in extending a warm house welcome to these future leaders. Welcome, welcome to the Capitol today. Delegate from Fairfax, Delegate Simon. Mr. Speaker, I rise for

[00:35:06] an introduction. The delegate has the floor. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Mr. Speaker, we're joined in the gallery today by representatives from a number of organizations that are participating in the fourth annual Democracy Day at the Capitol. I think they're right above my head, and if they would please rise so they can be recognized. Democracy Day at the Capitol is a day that brings together citizen advocates from across the Commonwealth to speak up for good governance.

[00:35:29] Mr. Speaker, in the interest of efficiency, and I also hope not to teach your patience, there's a number of groups. We could have done one introduction at a time, but we're going to introduce them all together in one big introduction. Nearly 130 Virginians are with us here today, representing, again, over a dozen nonpartisan organizations that are committed to strengthening our democracy, advancing legislation that makes government more responsive to and more reflective of everyday Virginians.

[00:35:51] The coalition includes Big Money Out Virginia, the League of Women Voters, Upvote Virginia, Clean Virginia, Veterans for All Voters, and of course, Falls Church Indivisible. Their priorities focus on campaign finance reform, ethics reform, rank choice voting, and strong protections for voting rights.

[00:36:07] Progress on these issues strengthens public trust by improving the integrity and reputation of state government. We thank all the Democracy Day advocates for their hard work and their commitment to a stronger democracy. Mr. Speaker, I'm going to ask my colleagues to join me in extending them a very warm House welcome.

[00:36:29] Welcome. Welcome to the Capitol today. The delegate from Prince William, Delegate Maldonado. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Mr. Speaker, I rise for the purpose of a motion. The delegate has the floor.

[00:36:44] Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House postpone the special and continuing joint order relating to judicial elections until Wednesday, January 21st, 2026, At the conclusion of the morning hour, pursuant to Rule 5 of H.J.R. 29, for the purposes of extending more time for us to compile our judges' lists and interviews.

[00:37:04] The delegate from Prince William, Delegate Maldonado, moves that the House postpone the special and continuing joint order relating to judicial elections until Wednesday, January 21, 2026, at the conclusion of the morning hour, pursuant to Rule 5 of House Joint Resolution 29. All those in favor say aye. All those opposed, no. The motion is agreed to.

[00:37:23] Pursuant to House Rule 30, the journal shall reflect that the following members are away on pressing personal business. I'm going to grant a lead from today's session, Delegates Knight and McLaughlin. Clerk will announce the next order of this. Mr. Speaker, the second portion of the morning hour is not applicable, as is the third portion given today's calendar.

[00:37:39] Clerk will announce the next order of this. And the fourth and final portion of the morning hour is there for member requests for points of personal privilege. The Speaker kindly asks you to use your request to speak button to get into the queue. Clerk will call the calendar. The Delegate from Fairfax, Delegate Watts.

[00:37:57] Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise for a point of personal privilege. The delegate, of course, has the floor. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The highlight of me for this last weekend was a moment early in the morning at St. Paul's Church when then-governor-elect Spanberger was making her remarks, and in the sanctity of that sanctuary, tears flowed when she said, in the busyness of everything, I forgot to ask for my grandmother's Bible.

[00:38:34] And when she said the word grandmother, the tears flowed. She spoke, she felt the legacy that I would like to take a few moments to honor in this woman who has become the first woman governor of Virginia, of the Commonwealth.

[00:38:53] We all have a lineage, and it's a long lineage. Harriet Tubman, who brought 300 souls repeatedly through peril to freedom.

[00:39:10] For myself, that same lineage is one of the women who was honored in the women's memorial who somehow found her way as a young woman from Illinois all by herself in the wilderness of the beginning of this nation back to Virginia all by herself.

[00:39:34] She had toughness. Harriet Tubman had toughness. Women have toughness. Our now Governor Spanberger has that same lineage of toughness. As a major law enforcement officer working with the CIA, she knows the discipline and the toughness.

[00:39:58] And even for those of us who somehow made it without Title IX, we have learned to compete. We have learned to be part of the whole give and take of competition and to know what's inside of us.

[00:40:16] And that's what I see in Governor Spanberger. This is a person who knows her strength and what's inside of her and what she can do. But I was asked more than once this last weekend, did I ever think I'd see the day when we'd have the first woman governor of Virginia?

[00:40:39] My honest answer was, I thought I'd see it before now. What I didn't expect, and now I'm going to return to some of the remarks that I gave back in 2018, when only 31 of the members here were present in 2018.

[00:40:59] When on behalf of 16 women in the House of Delegates, 2018, it was only, what, six, seven years ago? There were only 16 women? What I didn't expect was to now see 42 women in the House of Delegates.

[00:41:19] And now if I may return to those remarks of 2018 for that lineage, a little history.

[00:41:40] In 1924, the first two women were elected to the House. By 1933, a total of six had served. But that marked the end of women in the House for the next 20 years.

[00:42:02] The next woman didn't take her seat until 1954. She was joined, four years later, by two more women and another in 1960 for a total of four in 1960.

[00:42:18] I want to take a moment to give these four women, three Democrats and one Republican, special recognition because they were truly women of courage. courage no woman at all for 20 years and then these four isolated human beings took their seat in this chamber they were not only isolated as women but they came to this body with a conviction that massive resistance must end they stood

[00:42:55] against a power structure that would close public schools rather than open them to african-americans one of these women was my mentor dorothy mcdermott who ultimately rose to be the chair the only woman chair thus far of the powerful appropriations committee as well as the first woman to serve on rules she wanted me to run and as a key part of her approach was getting me

[00:43:29] down here as her aide so I would have a real view of how I would balance family with the world of the General Assembly this exposure included the curmudgeon role that her husband played Mac played in supporting her a role a curmudgeon role that my husband fully embraced he liked being a free soul as we worked our way through how both he and I could thrive within changing roles for women I

[00:44:06] see a special example in our now first gentleman Doug I see a man who is truly comfortable this engineer in a nurturing role of the three wonderful daughters that they have I see what Mac and Dorothy had what Dave and I have is partnership that example for all of us who serve of how we work out with our

[00:44:39] life partner how we can best handle these roles when I took my seat in 1982 there'd only been 21 women who had ever sat in this chamber the great thing though was the women's rights movement has spurred a record election of four women that year and now there were a total of eight women in the house and and they'd run out of traditional women's committees to put us on.

[00:45:10] I'm sure it was Dorothy's help that I got my first choice. It was not a woman's committee, but, of course, the finance committee to carry on the tax research I'd done to get school funding and led to a job with the Fairfax Chamber of Commerce to expand the business tax base.

[00:45:28] Traditional roles for women had begun to crack ever so slightly, And I would be less than honest if I didn't note that most of us felt the pressure to be twice as good to keep any opportunity open.

[00:45:43] In the words of the time, Fred Hyster got the starring role, while Ginger Rogers did it in high heels and backwards. I bring up that passage because what I see in our first woman governor, Governor Spanberger, is competence along with toughness.

[00:46:05] and we have seen that in so many ways and personally as i've seen so many governors come and go she really is one of the most prepared that i have ever witnessed the next big crack came in 1983 court ruling that forced new house districts to be drawn along the federal voting rights act a professor and professor yvonne miller was the first black woman to seat it in the house followed the next session by Delegates Christian and Cunningham.

[00:46:37] The traditional look of the house had begun to change in 1983, not that long ago for me anyway. Today the leadership of all women of color is now not just a given in the communities of their heritage, it is flourishing, particularly tough fiber of the fabric of this body. I say that because While I only carry the label of woman, the challenge of that label gives me some appreciation

[00:47:15] for what makes the core of any woman especially tough when she also carries the label of a stereotyped minority. To be a survivor, they have had to reach deep to know who they truly are, no matter what anyone says or does.

[00:47:36] These women are strong, but they're also often acutely aware of the plight of others, good qualities to have in a public servant. I see that in Governor Spanberger.

[00:47:55] I see that in that natural warmth that embraces the young child in the aisle as she returns from her address to the Commonwealth. I see that in so many ways in her attention to each individual, that warmth of seeing the people before her.

[00:48:18] But I also need to, I hope I don't regret this, but I also need to personally observe that over all these years, while obviously I feel very proud to be a woman, when I introduce, if I were ever asked what are my preferred pronouns, My preferred pronouns are me, you, us.

[00:48:43] I have worked my whole life to be a whole person, not just a woman. And I certainly believe that Governor Spanberger brings that example to all of us. Let me conclude by now referring to a comment that really took me in her inaugural address.

[00:49:09] As she cited Dr. Martin Luther King's pilgrimage of prayer and thought what a wonderful concept that was, a pilgrimage of prayer as we tried to do the job before us.

[00:49:27] But she expanded it to talk in terms of a pilgrimage of progress, speaking on behalf of all of the legacy of women before us, that progress. Speaking of the pilgrimage of promise of what is yet to come, certainly in our first woman governor, and the pilgrimage of prosperity, that it's not a zero-sum game, we all have something to offer that will make all of us stronger and bigger and more vital for the Commonwealth.

[00:50:04] The legacy of her grandmother that in the sanctuary of St. Paul's Church brought Governor Spanberger to tears early that morning when she was to be sworn in as the first woman of the governor of Virginia is speaks to each of our own personal legacies of those who have come before us, who've inspired us, who've made us believe we can do the job that needs to be done. I can assure you that

[00:50:40] That from my legacy, as I've been part of my own moment in history, that I've been privileged to live. That finally, this weekend, I got that lump in my throat that I expected to have when I embraced our governor, Governor Spanberger, as she left the chamber in her address on the state of the Commonwealth.

[00:51:06] I had seen it, and it is wonderful. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Delegate from Henrico. Delegate Willett.

[00:51:29] Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Mr. Speaker, may we return to the first morning hour? For what purpose? For purposes of an introduction. The delegate has the floor. Thank you. Mr. Speaker, I do rise for an introduction. Joining us in the gallery, and I hope they will stand, are representatives from the Virginia Nursing Association.

[00:51:46] Nurses Association. Thank you. Mr. Speaker, the VNA represents more than 140,000 registered nurses in the Commonwealth of Virginia. The representatives are in Capitol Square today to advocate on behalf of their profession and their patients.

[00:52:01] Mr. Speaker, we need our nurses. They are frontline health care providers every day and in all parts of the state. I hope it will be the will of this body to give them a warm house welcome. Welcome to the Capitol today. Welcome.

[00:52:27] Clerk will call the calendar. Mr. Speaker, the calendar for today, Tuesday, January 20th, 2026. There is no business before the body based upon our actions in committee so far. Per House Rule 51, the House has returned to the morning hour.

[00:52:43] Does the clerk have any additional announcements or communications? Yes, sir. Tomorrow, just by way of looking out for our colleagues, I think tomorrow is Seafood Day. If you have shellfish, some people are allergic to it, so please consume any such deliciousness outside of the chamber.

[00:53:01] bring it in here because it causes issues for some members of your of the body here looking ahead to the rest of the meeting schedule for this afternoon and tomorrow uh committee on labor and commerce is meeting a half hour after adjournment they'll be down in the lower level house committee room a once the um that full committee is uh finished then uh subcommittee number one will meet i mean upon adjournment of the full committee. And then subcommittee number three will be meeting after adjournment of subcommittee one. So labor and commerce, subcommittee one, then subcommittee three, all in house room A. Half hour after adjournment, the committee on general

[00:53:41] laws will be meeting. They're in house committee room B on the second floor. Once the full committee is finished, then general laws, ABC gaming will meet in the same room. And And then 15 minutes upon adjournment of the ABC subcommittee, the Procurement and Open Government subcommittee, so General Laws, two of its subs, House Room B, second floor this afternoon.

[00:54:02] And then finally, rounding out the day legislatively, Committee on Finances, subcommittee number two is meeting at 4:30 in the North subcommittee room on the second floor. Looking ahead to tomorrow, Wednesday, January 21st, the P&E Voting Rights Subcommittee is not meeting so the first activity in the morning I think as a delegate will mention the conservative energy caucus will be meeting at 7:30 in the seventh floor north meeting room subcommittee room then legislatively ACNR's natural

[00:54:38] resources subcommittee will meet at 7:30 in house committee room B on the second floor ACNR natural resources then once they are finished at 9 o'clock the The full Committee on Agriculture and National Resources will be meeting there in House Room B.
